Art Unit: 1711

1. Claim 12 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention.

Support has not been provided for the subject matter of claim 12. The specification fails to disclose the addition of the polyisocyanate to the claimed compositions; rather, the specification states that the polyisocyanate is used in the production of the claimed compositions. Therefore, it is not seen that support exists for stating that the polyisocyanate is essentially an additive for existing compositions.

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in-

(1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or

(2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Art Unit: 1711

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

3. Claims 1, 2, and 4-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b or e) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Bauriedel ('709) or Bolte et al. ('164).

Patentees disclose methods for producing polyurethane prepolymers, wherein the methods encompass reacting a diisocyanate having isocyanate groups with differing reactivities with a polyol, including triols, to yield a product having both isocyanate functionality and isocyanate reactive functionality, including single hydroxyl functionality, which is then reacted with another diisocyanate. Despite, applicants' arguments of February 4, 2003 and October 16, 2003, patentees disclose preferred ratios of initial hydroxyl groups to initial isocyanate groups which will yield applicants' claimed addition product (A). See abstract and columns 2-5, especially column 5, line 4 within Bauriedel. See abstract and columns 2-4, especially, column 4, lines 21 and 22 within Bolte et al. The position is taken that when the disclosed trifunctional or higher polyols are used at the disclosed ratios, the disclosed processes anticipate applicants' process and high-functionality polyisocyanate.

4. However, if it is determined that the references fail to be anticipatory due to the fact that diols are also disclosed, the position is taken that it would have been obvious to one seeking increased functionality isocyanates to utilize the disclosed increased functionality polyols, while operating within the disclosed preferred index ratio range.

5. The examiner has considered applicants' response of October 16, 2003; however, the response is deficient for the following reason. Despite applicants' arguments, the disclosed processes are considered to encompass scenarios where only a single hydroxyl group remains after step one. This position is considered to be supported by the disclosure at column 3, line 45 of Bauriedel, wherein "an unreacted hydroxyl moiety" is referred to. Furthermore, the disclosed polyols, diisocyanates, and index ratios encompass reaction schemes that will yield a single hydroxyl group and multiple isocyanate groups. Applicants' arguments appear to be primarily concerned with the references' recitations of plural hydroxyl moieties. The examiner has considered these recitations; however, the position is taken that this language refers not to individual product molecules but to the product compositions as a whole. In other words, the reaction mass contains a plurality of hydroxyl groups. It is not seen that the language constitutes a requirement that the individual product molecules contain multiple hydroxyl groups. Again, this interpretation is reasonable in view of the disclosed reaction species and index ratios.

6. Claim 3 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

7. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

Art Unit: 1711

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
